

Loan Word Clippings in Japanese 2

A. Loan Word Clippings: A Systematic Gap

The following loan word clippings are systematically impossible:

	Impossible Clipping	Loan Word	Gloss
1.	*toraiki	sutoraiki	strike (labor dispute)
2.	*tarikku	itarikku	italic
3.	*demonstu	demonstutoresyon	demonstration
4.	*derikku	saikederikku	psychedelic
5.	*katiihu	hankatiihu	handkerchief
6.	*metikku	kosumetikku	cosmetic
7.	*huranne	huranneru	flannel
8.	*minyuumu	aruminyuumu	aluminum
9.	*katessen	derikatessen	delicatessen
10.	*rubaito	arubaito	job (German Arbeit )
11.	*rumetto	herumetto	helmet
12.	*batenda	baatendaa	bartender
13.	*koreesyon	dekoreesyon	decoration

What kinds of loan word clippings are systematically impossible in Japanese? State the generalization. [It is statable in prosodic terms.]

B. Evidence for Syllable Integrity

Construct an argument for Syllable Integrity based on loan word clippings in Japanese.

To do this, show that if Syllable Integrity holds, you can account for the systematic gap in loan word clippings by means of a prosodic template that not only accounts for the maximum length of loan word clippings, but also accounts for the systematic gap in the distribution of light and heavy syllables in loan word clippings.